This February, Los Angeles's largest and longest-running art fair, the LA Art Show, will make its annual West Coast return. But first, the team behind the event will launch a new and improved Art Palm Beach, a Florida fair recently acquired by LA Art Show parent company. Art Palm Beach is, like its California counterpart, the oldest contemporary art show in the area—making the unification of the two Contemporary art events under a single creative vision all the more notable.

"We ... will be creating a new and completely revamped Art Palm Beach," said Kassandra Voyagis in a statement, the producer and director of LA Art Show. "We will be taking this show in a new and exciting direction, marrying both fairs in a dynamic, state-of-the-art, bicoastal enterprise."

Art Palm Beach, opening on January 25, will welcome over 70 contemporary, emerging, and modern art galleries to the Palm Beach County Convention Center. It will also build off the success of LA Art Show's DIVERSEartLA, a program that engages local art institutions with timely programming. Curator Marisa Caichiolo ... will be presiding over a series of immersive art installations, including one by the British artist Marcos Lutyens. The inclusion of the internationally-recognized performance artist in the festivities reflects the high level of talent that Art Palm Beach is committed to platforming.

Meanwhile, LA Art Show promises to return "with a bang." "I'm blown away by the scope of work represented at this year's show," said Voyagis. "We're welcoming an extraordinary group of diverse global artists and galleries, learning from each other, and sparking ... of the European Pavilion; the debut of the Japanese Pavilion featuring 6 galleries from Japan; and a robust lineup of South Korean artists including Sori Choi, Lee Jin Hyu, and Han Ho.

LA Art Show has been working with St. Jude's Children's Hospital since 2015, and this year, it plans to bring Art Palm Beach into the fold. Both fairs have committed to donating 15 percent of proceeds to the organization in 2023.

Art Palm Beach will run from January 25 to January 29, 2023. LA Art Show will run from February 15 through February 19, 2023.

For the first time, DIVERSEartPB will launch in Palm Beach, a sister to the LA Art Show signature curatorial project DIVERSEartLA. Renowned Curator Marisa Caichiolo who is behind DIVERSEartLA, is leading DIVERSEartPB. "Humans are changing the earth's natural systems in rapid and unprecedented ways. This has propelled our planet into a new geologic era: the Anthropocene," said Caichiolo. "Contextualizing through immersive experiences and installations, we can all work together on solutions."

For its debut, DIVERSEartPB will be supporting Florida based non-profit arts organizations and museums and is pleased to present a special exhibition by internationally renowned multi-media artist Marcos Lutyens. In his installation, Lutyens takes the viewer on a hypnotic journey addressing the current drought in California and the rest of the world. DIVERSEartPB is also proud to introduce a collaboration between artist Guillermo Anselmo Vezzosi and scientist Dr. Eric Larour from NASA's Jet Propulsion Lab. The immersive experience and art exhibit in rising sea levels will also include a sculpture by Vezzosi, bringing new life to discarded waste.

Art Palm Beach will be held January 25th to 29th, 2023 at the Palm Beach County Convention Center. There will be more than 80 prestigious contemporary, emerging and modern art galleries. Art Palm Beach will donate 15% of all ticket proceeds to St. Jude Children's Research Hospital. For more information about the show please visit www.ArtPalmBea Art Palm Beach is back, with new faces behind the curtain, new immersive experiences, a new charity to support, a focus on climate change and sustainability — and a major piece of art for sale.

This year's event kicks off with a red-carpet gala Wednesday and wraps up Sunday at the Palm Beach County Convention ... Show Group, owners of the LA Art Show.

This year also features a painting for sale by one of the most prominent artists exhibited at the fair in years: Pablo Picasso.

"We're extremely lucky to have this for a show, and also to have it on sale," said Cassandra Voyagis, art fair director for Art Palm Beach and the LA Art Show.

Voyagis said she was contacted a few weeks ago by gallery Waterhouse & Dodd and told they had the Picasso piece, entitled "Tête," French for "head." The gallery asked Voyagis whether she felt Palm Beach would be the right market to show and sell the painting.

"I actually ... previously has been shown at the Tate Gallery London and the Museum of Modern Art in Paris.

"It actually is an incredibly rare piece," Voyagis said. It's valued at about $2 million, she said.

Sister show

More than 80 contemporary, emerging and modern art galleries will participate in this year's Art Palm Beach. The fair includes exhibits from galleries based in countries including Spain, France, Canada, Germany, England, Switzerland, Italy and South Korea, Voyagis said.

Local galleries with exhibits at Art Palm Beach include the John William Gallery of Boca Raton, Khawam Gallery of ... Jewelry of Jupiter, Provident Fine Art of Palm Beach, Robert Fontaine Gallery of Palm Beach, The Art Gallery of West Palm Beach and Yvel USA of Boca Raton.

"Being the first show of the season, there's a lot of excitement and a lot of people in town to enjoy this event," she said.

The goal is for Art Palm Beach to be the LA Art Show's sister event, she said. Voyagis brings a new perspective to the art fair, with immersive experiences, a new charity partner in St. Jude Children's Research Hospital, and a more contemporary look and feel, she said.

Voyagis said St. Jude has been the charity partner of the ... LA Art Show for eight years and when she asked whether they would be involved in Art Palm Beach, they were excited to continue the collaboration. Fifteen percent of Art Palm Beach's proceeds will go to St. Jude, and the opening night gala will include an appearance from a surprise celebrity guest and support of the children's hospital.

Palm Beach County's longest-running fair dedicated to contemporary, emerging and modern masterworks of art of the 20th and 21st centuries, Art Palm Beach Show (artpalmbeachshow.com) is a favorite for art enthusiasts and collectors. Before Art Palm Beach's acquisition by Scott Diament and Rob Samuels of the Palm Beach Show Group, the fair was organized by IFAE founders Lee Ann and David Lester, the original founders of both Art Miami and Art Asia Hong Kong. "We already own the LA Art Show, so we thought let's marry the two and bring a little L.A. to Palm Beach. The LA Art Show is the most prestigious and innovative art show in America, so it's a natural fit," says Diament, a serial entrepreneur, gemologist and Palm Beach resident. "And we've totally revamped the show, from immersive experiences to our new VIP invite-only opening night event. We are turning everything on its head, and we can't wait for Palm Beach to see what we've got in store."

just what i need ? the effects of climate change are becoming visible around us, from weather extremes to spring blossom way to. soon while the impacts are changing our world, this weekend artists are showcasing this in unique ways out of florida art show. >> joining us right now our artist, and dr. erika bore from nasa's jet propulsion laboratory who work together on this piece. thank you so much for joining us this morning. now, the piece of art that you created looks at to sea level rise. can you explain what we are seeing in the peace and how exactly you decided to create this? >> yes, thank you for having the chance to be here. the piece we are seeing here in our -- is an installation and also a video rvs. the installation is our creation of sea level. it is not precise information, it is only to experience how it is to be close to the -- . but for us, there is a bigger piece made the collaboration of -- who is a video designer from argentina. the this approach, the idea of -- information like the -- from glaciers. combining the recent pictures and how information is raised. >> doctor love, or what is your role in this -- >> so, the jet propulsion lab, i'm the planner for sea level rise. and we are looking at the provision from manassas to satellites and converting them into -- sea level. so -- we want to do and intersection between art and science where we use the real numbers to really inform the artwork that we're able to create. >> that is so neat that you are using actual numbers and putting those in a way that people can see through art. what do you hope that people will take away when they are viewing your work? >> the idea is to create a bridge between sides and people. that is why we are making working to gather. it is to make people feel closer to the information. that is how i met -- . that is how we started working together. trying to apply the information, which is hard to understand sometimes. and creating art pieces that people can connect with. so, arts is a necessary tool to make people feel closer to what is really happening around us. that is why the first person that i presented, it was presented initially. it was the best -- of the future seen in 4000 years from now. so i applied the information, i didn't formation. and that is how we met together. and it was really amazing because the impression of people received was to be aware and to understand that our daily actions are creating some things that can change the situation around us. >> i kind of like the fact that it is like three dimensional and interact with the viewers as well. have you created other pieces of art looking at climate change and, will you create more in the future? >> yes. we are working, last year and september arrived to work on this. i arrived with -- and went back home to argentina with 24. one of those projects is the main product that we are working together on, it's the national pressure to be applied around the world. and it is gonna be connected to nasa information, to have free access to real information, updated. where you can see how everything is happening and if we can produce the impact that we are creating on how we can adapt to specific situations. >> it was a call all of the duration and the predictions that we are carrying out for example in the nasa sea level science team. we and checking them directly with precise numbers leading to artwork that would be accessible around the world. and accessible to the public. >> yeah, not only to be applied in the usa, we are trying to create the first -- in the usa, and going around the world between 23 everywhere. we want to create awareness and try to help in collaborate. >> what about other climate change or that is on display, what else can people see that this weekend's art show? we >> i am not the right person to talk about that because that is a question to the creator. there is two more exhibitions related to climate change and we would like to invite you to go there and visit. there are also immersive. there is a really interesting piece which is a -- created by marcos -- and it is really interesting to get involved in that piece because you can find a time to reabsorbed for this -- . >> all right, thank you both so much for joining us today. this is art palm beach going on at palm beach county convention center in florida. that goes through tomorrow, so if you are, there you can go check

Yes, five venues. It will take 3 posts to recount it fully, and share images with each. To start I created invitations to interested friends.

Arrival of a artist friend always sets the pace. One: Art Palm Beach, it's the last day, let's go!

Reminded me of Debra Providences work, hers is clay this is Murano Glass

This beauty is $25,000

Walk into our PNC Bank you will see very much the same quality floral art. Suitable for a cottage and far less than than the $25,000 price tag. . For the affordable ... week when I also drew the very same image as "Lucy in the sky w Diamonds" by Healander. I was doing laundry. Same vantage point, I was trying for a portrait. but she was folding laundry, not facing me. I drew her black patten heels . Healander's is 3 ft tall in colour appropriately priced for Art Palm Beach and mine is in my sketchbook.

One of the sponsors of this show was Brightline so a lot of yellow and I could not resist this photo

Yellow and Blue are complimentary colours
